

ST GEORGE'S PARK

Richard Wright

My move to St Georges Park has been an unqualified success.

As a longstanding resident of Haywards Heath I first visited St George`s Park soon after work started and thought that if they could turn the, then, concept into a reality it would suit some people admirably. Little did I imagine that more than 15 years later I would find myself, a widower, and in a house and garden far too big to be just such a person. Realising that the property was not going to get less demanding in terms of day to day management, and that my ability to negotiate the minefield of downsizing, was scarcely going to improve, it was time for a move.

I was lucky to have friends living here already who were only too willing to show me round informally and thus get a good feel for the place. I would thoroughly recommend that any prospective new resident not only views the properties and meets the sales staff, but also takes time to simply wander round unescorted to get a flavour of the friendly atmosphere that exists and the appeal of the surroundings.

My arrival was almost at the height of the lockdown, so far from ideal, but I soon managed to meet a few others for a chat whilst out walking and, as restrictions have gradually eased, have widened my activities to include swimming, croquet, bowls and Petanque .I have also organised an seemingly ever expanding group of friends who dine together on a Friday (Fish & Chip night) for nothing more than friendship and banter although a glass of wine also plays its part!

In short I regard my move to St George`s as an unqualified success.
